1

Giving advice

- There are two modal verbs often use for giving advice: 'should' and 'ought to'.
- Both mean the same thing but work in slightly different ways.

2

Giving advice

- You should do more travelling.
You shouldn't drink so much beer.
- You ought to do more travelling.
You ought not to drink so much beer.

3

Giving stronger advice

- Must is used to express obligation, give orders and give advice.
- Used for present and future reference.
 - ▶ When the past is involved, use had to.

4

Giving stronger advice

- to give orders firmly and positively.
 - ✓ You must go to sleep now.
 - ✓ They must study hard.

5

Past perfect

- The past perfect is a verb tense used to talk about actions that were completed or that happened before a specific moment in the past.

6

Past perfect

- The structure is had + past participle.
- There is no change whether the subject is singular or plural

7

Past perfect: negative form

- They had not prepared for the test.
 - They hadn't prepared for the test.
- She had not traveled abroad yet.
 - She hadn't traveled abroad yet.

8

Past perfect: negative form

- Had they prepared for the test?
- Had she traveled abroad?
- Had I packed all my things?

9

Past tense timeline

- Had you read the book?
- I had read it already before I went to class.

10

Second Conditional

- In second conditional the speaker is still thinking about the future.
- It is related to a particular condition in the future, and the result of this condition, but there is not a real possibility that this condition will happen.

11

Second Conditional

- If I won the lottery, I would buy a car.
- If she had time, she would travel a lot.

12

Second conditional: Modal Verbs

- Use should, could or might instead of would:
 - ✓ If I had money, I could buy a car.
 - ✓ If they stayed, they might see the sunrise.
 - ✓ If he worked more, he should find time to rest.

13

Phrasal Verbs

- Most verbs have an equivalent form usually made up of a verb and one (or more) particle or preposition, which is called a phrasal verb.

14

Phrasal Verbs

- When the element that accompanies the verb is a preposition, the phrasal verb is classified as prepositional.
 - ✓ The thief broke into the house.
 - ✓ The kids were looking for the ball.
 - ✓ My mother always stands by me.

15

Phrasal Verbs

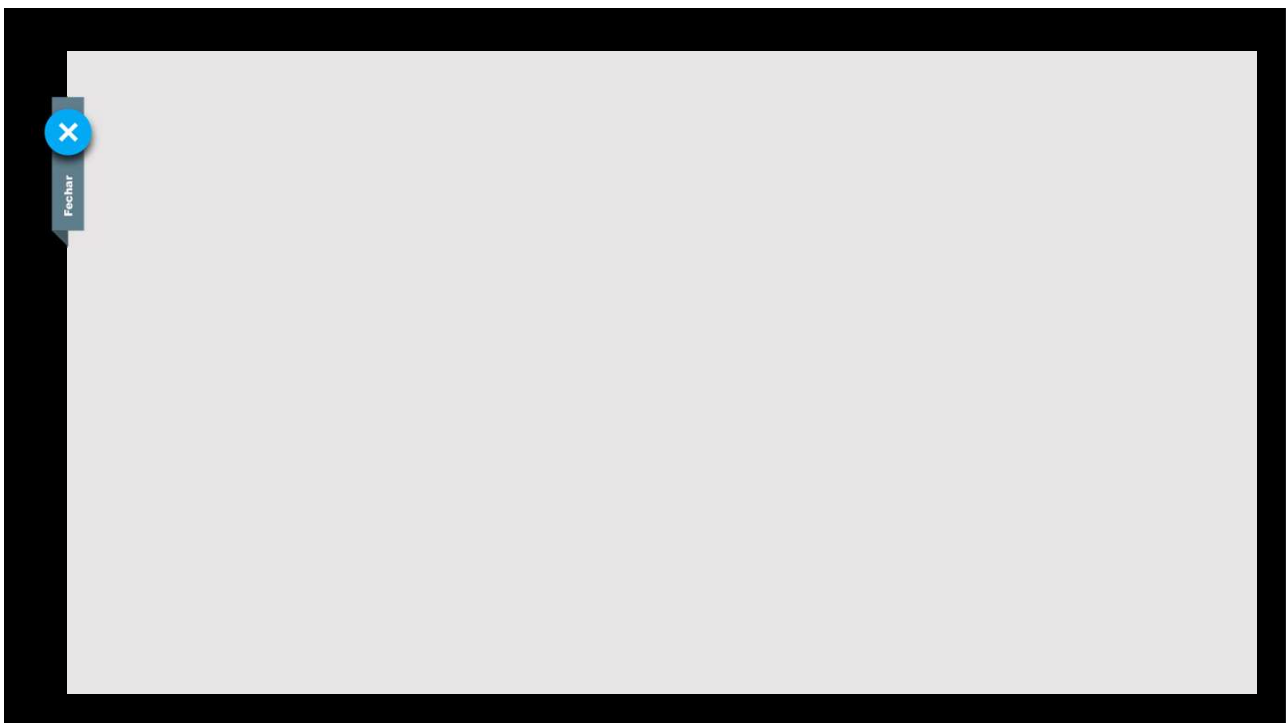

- These verbs are generally transitive (they need an object), which means that the complement of the sentence is placed after the phrasal verb.
 - ✓ When they got off the plane, it was raining.
 - ✓ You need to do your part to keep down the dengue mosquitos.

16

Phrasal Verbs

- When the element is a particle, it ceases to be interpreted as a preposition.
 - ✓ Don't give in so easy, you can do it!
 - ✓ I really hate getting up in the morning.
 - ✓ Let's hang out tonight?
